Though children aren’t thinking about next steps yet, it’s understandable that parents have Kindergarten on their minds. Luckily, Bing teachers can share knowledge of how your child’s play bolsters skills that come in handy at the next step, and they can facilitate thinking about what's best for your family for next year. The hosts will also offer tips for how (and when!) to appropriately talk to your child about kindergarten and support them by honoring their present development and supporting the transition next fall.

These events are open to adults of the Bing Nursery School Community.
