Young children’s play can feel challenging, even when it is productive, creative, and filled with learning. This seminar examines how adults sometimes feel with children’s play, be it with physical risk, sensitive themes, or emotional responses. However, such play holds inherent value for children as a means to make sense of their environment, connect with peers, or grapple with difficult concepts. The presenters will also offer concrete tools to support children’s play.

Who, When & Where

Bing Teachers:
- Lars Gustafson
- Todd Erickson
- Peckie Peters

Thursday, March 15th
7:00 – 8:30 pm

Tower House

Parent Seminar

Limited to 40 participants
RSVP @ bingschool.stanford.edu/ps_march