2017 SUMMER SESSION FOR EDUCATORS

Teaching From the Child's Perspective

This 2 1/2-day workshop will focus on the child's perspective in play-based programs. Children are remarkably competent: they have their own cultures, agendas, and perceptions of the world around them. With a grasp of a child's view of the world—what feels important, fair, interesting, and urgent—teachers can effectively plan engaging environments and have respectful interactions that support children's play, learning, and development.

Participants will approach this topic in a variety of ways, including presentations by Bing teachers, individual and collaborative reflective exercises, and multiple opportunities for classroom observations.
